

RUTLAND READY FOR LEGION MEET

BIGGEST STATE CONVENTION EXPECTED DURING FAIR

Gen. Edwards and Perhaps Coolidge on List of Speakers With Dale and Hartness

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 26.—That Rutland will entertain the greatest assemblage of world war veterans ever gathered in this state is evidenced by the activity of Rutland Post, No. 31, Department of Vermont, in making its preparations for the third annual convention to be held here September 6 and 7. Already the merchants and business men of the city, with the whole-hearted cooperation of the chamber of commerce, have entered into the spirit of the occasion and have contributed largely toward making the gathering one of the biggest of its kind ever held in this city.

Adjutant Allen Fletcher, Department of Vermont, was in this city yesterday conferring with the members of the state and local committees toward perfecting the program and completing arrangements to take care of the host of visitors who will be present.

The fact that the Rutland fair will be on at the same time adds to the zest of the program. The Rutland fair committee will admit free every man wearing a Legion button to the Wednesday afternoon and evening program and the day will be known as "Legion Day".

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards will address the ex-soldiers at the fair grounds. It is barely possible that Vice-President Calvin Coolidge, the sage of Plymouth, will also extend greetings at the same time.

Among the speakers who will address the Legionnaires at the new Memorial armory where the convention meetings will be held are Gov. James Hartness, Congressman Porter Dale, National Adjutant Lemuel Bolles, Past National Chaplain, Rev. Francis Kelly of Troy, N. Y., and C. R. Bains, business manager of the soldiers' weekly, the American Legion Weekly.

Music will be furnished by the Rutland City band and other forms of entertainment will be had. It is the purpose of the local committee, composed of John J. Conklin, Robert P. Bibby, George F. Jones, Jack A. Crowley and Dr. James A. Hamilton to give the visiting Legionnaires one of the best times since the date of their discharges.

The Rutland Memorial boulder, upon which are inscribed the names of 36 Rutland boys who died during the war, will be unveiled at this time. A fitting ceremony will be held.

The clean-up squad, sent from National Headquarters, will be present at the American Legion tent at the fair grounds. This squad is being sent into the field to take care of the pending cases of claims by ex-service men for partial or total disability and will take charge of all those cases which come to its attention. The squad consists of James W. Muirhead, George N. Welch, Dr. J. L. Clancy, J. G. Gibling and Edwin W. Gault.

All visiting members of the Legion will be provided with quarters and those who come by automobile will find a place in which to garage their cars. Everything is being done to make the Legionnaires' visit an enjoyable one.

MISS M. HAYDEN APPOINTED PERMANENT VOICE TEACHER

Director of Summer School of Music
Will Give up Boston Studio for Middlebury

An announcement of much interest to lovers of music is the appointment of Miss Minnie Hayden as instructor in Voice in the College. For ten or eleven years, Miss Hayden has been coming to Middlebury and conducting a studio of music in connection with the Summer Session of Middlebury College, and during this time her devotion to her art and her skill in developing the voices of young students have won for her an enviable reputation. Miss Hayden is a pupil of Mme. Edna Hall and Charles R. Adams, Boston, Signor Panzani, Florence, Italy, and Franklin Clives, London, England. She is now giving up her studio in Steinert Hall, Boston, in order to enter upon this new work, and undertakes it with her usual energy and enthusiasm. In addition to individual lessons in voice building, Miss Hayden will have general charge of the musical interests of the Women's College and act as Director of the Women's College Glee Club. Miss Hayden will retain as her studio the Music Hall on Weybridge street where she has conducted her summer work. It is anticipated that in addition to her work with college students Miss Hayden may have some time for lessons with those not connected with the College. Miss Hayden expects to take up her residence in Middlebury about the middle of September.

The work displayed by Miss Hayden's students during the last summer session was of a high order. This was manifest both at the weekly practice programs by the students and at the recital which marked the culmination of these programs at the close of the session. In this final program the work of Frances Wilson, Marjorie Overing, Hollis Cooley, and Guy Coolidge deserves especial mention. Others who assisted with the program were the Misses Busch, Proctor, Moriarty, Nelson, Benson, and Messrs. Currier and Greenfield.

"Mickie"

"Mickie", the gray squirrel mascot of the Register office, was found dead Monday morning. His tameness had been the curiosity of the many who had seen him in his cage or in the trees near the office. Although only a dumb animal, Mickie had been an inspiration to the staff in more ways than one. The editor will miss him particularly, for now he will have to sharpen his pencils himself, and clip his cigars, both of which stunts were favorite pastimes of the mascot. Of course he shuffled the order envelopes too, and nicked some type, but that was easily forgiven him. We wish we had another such helpmate.

STATE BEEKEEPERS ASS'N

F. D. Manchester of Cornwall was re-elected president of the Vermont Beekeepers' Association at the annual meeting in North Ferrisburg Tuesday.

The list of speakers included E. F. Phillips and E. S. Brigham, of the national and state agricultural departments respectively, C. E. Lewis of West Shoreham, William S. Selser of Philadelphia, Pa., and Amos Eaton, director of the Vermont exhibit at the Eastern States Exposition.

The other officers of the association who were also re-elected are J. W. Clark of Addison, first vice-president; E. Melrose of Charlotte, third vice-president; E. W. Larabee of Shoreham, secretary and treasurer.

The Vermont honey crop was reported by Mr. Manchester as below the average on account of the winter killing of clover and the dry weather. The honey crop of the whole country is similarly light, he said.

Grange Meeting Tonight

The Middlebury Grange will hold a regular meeting this evening in the grange hall. After the business session, a program of entertainment will be presented.

TO EVERY ADDISON COUNTY MAN

DEAR SIR:—

What you get out of a suit of clothes is the real measure of its value.

It doesn't do a bit of good to get them at a cheap figure and get no wear. You will get style and keep it, only when you have quality to back it up.

Men are better buyers than formerly, but few are expert enough to really know fabrics and tailoring. They are better buyers because they have learned to buy a name they know at a store they know.

Styleplus is our medium-priced line—has been many years. We find it easy to sell Styleplus because men have learned to know their real values—the leaders in their field.

We have a very satisfactory assortment at $25, $35, and $40 and we want you to see them. No obligation if you don't want to buy; no risk if you do, every suit guaranteed.

Come in and look.

Yours very truly,

A. B. RUGG.

Soldiers Claims Nation—Wide Campaign in Progress

A nation-wide clean-up of government claims growing out of World War service will begin on Labor Day, it has been announced at national headquarters of the American Legion.

Flying squads representing the Legion, the Public Health Service and the Red Cross simultaneously will sweep through each state for the purpose of securing satisfactory adjustment of all government cases.

Immediate examination will be given and prompt hospitalization arranged for urgent cases. Information and assistance to every ex-service man who has suffered disability traceable to war service is the object of the campaign.

Legion officials are urging the traveling boards be given final authority in every case coming to their attention. The Clean-up Squad for Vermont has made public a tentative itinerary for its trip about the state. It is hoped that claims taken up at this time will receive the immediate attention of the bureau, and it is urged that the veterans themselves do their share by coming forward with their claims and not leave the work entirely to the Legion and the Red Cross. The Clean-up Squad plans to attend most of the fairs of the state, and their tentative itinerary is as follows:

The squad will stay almost a week in Rutland for the Rutland fair and horse show and for the State Convention of the American Legion which will be held in that city this year. The entire schedule is as follows: August 22, 23, North Hero, Grand Isle county; 24, 25, Morrisville, Lamoille county; 26, 27, St. Johnsbury, in Caledonia County; 28, Barton, and 30, Newport, both in Orleans County; August 31 and September 1, Sheldon Junction, Franklin County fair; 2, 3, Middlebury, Addison County fair; 4, 5, Rutland, Rutland County fair and horse show, and the American Legion convention, September 6, 7, 12, 13, Bennington, in Bennington county; 14, 15, Manchester Center, Battenkill Industrial society, 16, 21, Burlington, Montpelier and Barre; 22, 23, Ludlow, in Windsor county, and the Black River Valley Grange fair; 24, 26, Bellows Falls, for Windham county; 27, 28, Brattleboro, and the Valley fair; 29, Woodstock and the Windsor County fair; 30, Tunbridge in Orange county, and the Union Agricultural fair; October 1, Bloomfield, in Essex county; 3, 6, White River Junction at the State fair.

VERMONT WILL MAKE EXTENSIVE EXHIBIT

Green Mountain State Industries Will be Shown at Eastern States Exposition

Through the efforts of James F. Dewey, president of the Vermont Associated Industries, Vermont will be more extensively represented at the Eastern States exposition at Springfield, Mass., next month than at any former exhibition.

The Vermont Marble Company of Proctor, several granite manufacturers of Barre, slate manufacturers of Poultney and Fair Haven, maple sugar products of St. Johnsbury and Essex Junction, and several other manufacturing lines from various sections of the state will be seen in the Vermont section of the exhibition.

The Vermont Publicity Bureau, a department in the office of Harry A. Black, secretary of state, will make a big scenic showing of Vermont scenery in photographic reproduction and will distribute literature at the exhibition.

The Vermont State Fair follows the dates of the Eastern States Exposition and the entire Vermont exhibit will be moved from Springfield to the State fair grounds.

Secretary Davis of the State Fair is mailing out the new premium book to exhibitors. Persons not on the mailing list may obtain a copy by writing Secretary Davis.

Maple Producers to Meet

In order to discuss plans of organization for the producers of maple products, a state-wide mass meeting has been called for Friday, September 2. This meeting will be held at the New Sherwood Hotel, Burlington, at 1 o'clock.

As a result of a meeting of the committee on marketing maple products held in Burlington on August 23, a plan of organization will be presented at the next meeting. All producers interested in the development of a sane and orderly system of marketing their maple products should be present at this meeting and voice their opinions regarding the organization of an association which will handle and market Vermont maple products as they should be marketed.
